

Helston Town Mayor's Christmas Appeal

Helston & The Lizard Foodbank supports local families and individuals who are in need throughout the year.

Helston Mayor, Councillor John Martin, is proud, once again, to be supporting the Helston & the Lizard Foodbank with a donation from the Mayor's Fund of £500 to provide additional food to those most vulnerable individuals and families in the Helston area.

"This year I am continuing the work, established over several years, by inviting the whole town to contribute food or money. I am heartened that so many in our community have in recent years stepped forward to help"... Helston Town Mayor.

"We very much appreciate all those able to support the Foodbank Christmas Appeal, which enables us to continue in supporting some of the most vulnerable people in our local community. This year we are seeing an increase in the Christmas hampers of over 40% on last year, which is so sad to see, yet we live in such an amazing community that see the need and fulfill that need! Makes you so proud to be a Helstonian!" ... David Williams, Development Manager, Mustard Seed and Helston & The Lizard Foodbank.

Should you wish to join the Mayor's Fund in assisting the foodbank this Christmas, the Town Council is collecting donations. Are you able to help those less fortunate this Christmas?

Helston & the Lizard foodbank operates from the Helston-based charity The Mustard Seed, in partnership with The Trussell Trust. This service does not receive any national financial assistance and, sadly, the need for it continues to rise each year.

This Christmas they will be providing food hampers to individuals and families who would not otherwise manage to afford to have a Christmas meal.

The work of the foodbank continues to meet the need of local families and people who are struggling during these difficult times.

This Christmas, the Mayor's Fund is proud once again to be supporting the Helston & the Lizard foodbank and will be donating £500 to provide additional food to those most vulnerable individuals and families in the Helston area.
